IWG ANNOUNCES A NEW FOCUS ON PREMIUM VIP AIRLINER WATER SYSTEMS

10 September 2007

Burnaby, BC, Canada - International Water-Guard Industries Inc. (IWG), the long time leader in aircraft water treatment and innovative water systems, is pleased to announce its new program focusing on the special requirements of airliner conversion customers.

“We see a growing trend in the VIP airliner market towards customization and excellence in the water systems installed on their aircraft,” said David Fox, president and chief executive officer. “The demands on the water system are increasing, with more exotic galley and shower installations and the need for high, consistent water flow and greater capacity is now the norm. We have developed the products and skill set to fully meet the needs of these demanding clients.”

IWG’s flagship offering in this market is its patented Circulating Potable Water System (C-PWS). It is the best available, providing consistent water flow and eliminating the risk of in-flight freezing, while maximizes volume use with conformal tanks. Beyond this, IWG has been offering custom configurations of pumps, valves and other system elements to ensure delivery of the best possible water service to the users of VIP jets.

“The passenger on a VIP airliner type – be it a BBJ, or an even larger customized airliner, expects the finest experience, including almost spa – level water amenities. And this is where we deliver,” Fox pointed out.

IWG’s new large system initiative will be highlighted by its “Indulge Onboard” marketing program at this year’s National Business Aviation Association (NBAA) Meeting and Conference in Atlanta, Georgia later this month. IWG will provide information and product displays in booth 1413.

International Water-Guard is a Canadian aerospace company focusing on aircraft potable water treatment and full water system solutions. IWG has expertise in all aspects of water treatment, and has the products and expertise to provide high quality water for passengers and crew, and lightweight, space saving solutions for the aircraft operator.
